Efficient Energy Stove
Project in Kenya

AREA CHIEFS

Every Village in Kenya has its own unique setup. For the most part, villages are run by the Area Chief and the local District Officers and District Authorities. These people play a vital role in all issues concerning the village and are the ones responsible for decisions effecting what happens within each village location on a daily basis.

As a responsible company working within these communities, we need to operate with cultural sensitivity that considers the hierarchical structure within the villages. When we first enter a project area, meeting with the local Area Chief or the Village Elders is a top priority as they are the people responsible for all decisions within the community.

We carefully explain our project process, aims and intentions to them and get their go ahead to begin the project process within the selected project area. Only once they have given us approval will the rest of the community support us and allow us to begin project research and implementation.

We decided to pay a visit to some of the Area officials in Diani Location, Ukunda to get their impressions of the projects we have been working on within their locations.

Chief Suleiman Mwadzayo
Area Chief and Assistant Area Chief for Diani Location, Ukunda

Our first stop was the office of the Area Chief and Assistant Area Chief for Diani Location, Ukunda. Chief Suleiman Mwadzayo was incredibly hospitable and welcoming.

“It is a great honour to have CarbonZero representatives in my office. I remember when you first came to me with the idea. I remember thinking, these people are a little bit crazy. They want to come into my village and build hundreds of stoves. How are they going to do this? This is no easy task.

But now, over a year later I walk around the village and so many women are cooking on these stoves. Almost every house it has a stove. This is very impressive. It is not everyday you find people come in and actually complete a project. Many organisations have been here before but have been defeated. As you see, working conditions here are not easy. There is the heat, the bad roads, the lack of water and electricity. But you have all done a very brilliant job.

I think also a great sign is that the community are so excited by who ever even mentions the word CarbonZero. This is a good indicator of a good project. It means you handle people well and that they respect you and that you respect them. This is great. I know our community appreciates every single stove and also the way in which you have implemented the project. As Assistant Chief, I must say we are honoured you have selected this location for a project and grateful for all the good the project brings. However we can support you we will most certainly. It is the best thing to happen to my people in years.”

We also spoke with Commander Gilbert Nyuni of the Area Police for the Diani Division. This is what Gilbert had to say:

“CarbonZero is so good for our village. I spend all my time walking around this community talking to every individual. They are all so happy with this project. There was resistance in the beginning, but you came into the village, I remember, and you met with everyone and kindly explained the benefits very slowly in a way they could understand. I remember this. You called a meeting and you showed them a model of the stove and step by step how the project works.

It is this patience and explaining that made people want to try the new stove. Now everyone is loving it. You know in Diani people buy firewood, not collect. So people spend so much money every day and it is hard because of unemployment. This lets them save so much. I welcome this project into my location. It is really benefiting my people. I can see it every day. And now the only problem is those who have not received a stove in the adjoining village are knocking on my office door everyday saying please, please they want one. You CarbonZero are doing so good, it is my prayer that you can take this project everywhere and everyone can benefit from this like in the way my village did.”

The opinion of Village leaders and district authorities is a great indicator of the success of any project. The village leaders in Ukunda as in all our many projects have played a pivotal role in enabling the smooth implementation and ongoing support in their communities. Our projects do a lot more than just create Carbon credits they make a significant difference to the lives of the people in the communities in which we operate.

“With positive printing you help the environment and improve the lives of the people involved.”
